MESSAGE FROM SILVER AWARD ALUMNI ALİ EMİR DİNÇ

The Impact of the International Award for Young People- Türkiye on My Life

When I reflect on the values and experiences gained from completing the Bronze and Silver categories, it becomes challenging to express them in words. The International Award for Young People- Türkiye did not just represent an award or certificate of achievement for me; it also became a symbol of my personal development and societal contributions.

My journey, starting with the Bronze category, introduced me to unknown talents and taught me the importance of contributing to my community and the world through voluntary service. Physical activities and skills endeavors were filled with challenges requiring discipline and determination. However, throughout this process, I learned to push my limits and strive to become a better individual.

The Silver category further advanced this journey. I enhanced my leadership skills and experienced the power of teamwork. Experiencing this part of the program amidst the pandemic during my Adventurous Journey was a completely different experience. Experiencing teamwork without physical interaction was a unique experience for me. What I loved most was finding myself by distancing myself from the chaos of life. Particularly in my Volunteer Service endeavors, I realized that what truly makes a person feel good is making an impact and I worked towards it.

In both categories, I internalized values such as patience, determination, and empathy. This program not only awarded me with an achievement but also lifelong friendships and memories. Now, as I progress towards the Gold category, I will continue to build upon the strong foundation provided by this program and contribute more to society.

The most important lesson the International Award for Young People- Türkiye taught me is that life is a marathon, and every step, whether small or big, is valuable. I saw how each step towards my dreams could create a positive impact on myself and the people around me. What I realized along the way is that goodness is actually two-sided like a medal, because the person doing good feels its happiness within themselves and continues to strive to maintain this positive feeling.
